

Dr Rob Watson

Rob Watson is the Director of Rolls-Royce Electrical. Rob has previously held a number of different roles across the group, joining 10 years ago as Regional Director, Middle East, before taking on a number of customer business and programme management leadership roles. Immediately before taking on his current position Rob was Chief of Staff to the group CEO, Warren East. Prior to joining Rolls-Royce Rob worked in the oil and gas industry, having started his career as a diplomat with the British Foreign Office. He is married with three children.